KAYA Online Learning Platform Stories

"My name is Mary I am the executive director of Widows and Orphans Charitable organisation (WOCO) I came to know about Kaya learning in one of the SSJR meetings conducted by save the children, I shared contact with the e-learning coordinator who was in charge of Kaya program, he directed me on how to open an account.

I managed to open an account went through the catalogue, I selected a course, but could not complete the course due some engagement in the office, I attempted to join a child protection courses offered by UNICEF through Kaya platform but I surely struggle to open the video, it was telling me your network not supporting I lost hope and continued with other engagement.

Three months later I visited NGO forum to renew the organisation certificate, I was very much attracted by the way their staff were committed to on line courses, they were discussing about their achievement and the courses they managed to complete, Without been invited I jumped into the discussion and asked with curiosity " what are you learning online and how much is the course" , one of them look at me with a smile and said," free, Kaya on learning is free" , I responded Kaya !, "I have an account but I have not completed even a single course," one of them added, " so now go and try it again" .

Immediately when I left the NGO forum office I connected my computer to internet join a course of core humanitarian standard after some hours I completed a course printed out my certificate stick on the wall next to my chair. From then leaning became very interesting, I made a routine that every Friday and Saturday I must complete a course". Time I spent in learning was not a waste instead my leadership skills have been boosted very much. Learning on Kaya has added value to all my staff both at the national level and field level it has help them to develop a passion for operation and management ability proven by successful completion of the child protection project. I highly recommend kaya online learning platform to other partners both national and international NGOs, because it greatly contribute in filling in staff capacity gab. It is an opportunity to enhance the quality of our humanitarian services.
